

Dr. J. Scott Deiter
Naval Surface Warfare Center, Indian Head Division

After 22 years conducting basic research on energetic materials and international recognition as an expert on solid-state high temperature synthesis, Dr. Scott Deiter became Director of Technology Transfer and ORTA Representative for the Indian Head Division (IHDIV) Naval Surface Warfare Center (NSWC), Indian Head, Md. He has held this position for the past 11 years. He is responsible for all aspects of technology transfer, including negotiating Cooperative Research and Development Agreements (CRADAs), Partnership Intermediary Agreements (PIAs), and all aspects of patent licensing. His "Technology Transfer Business Plan" is used as a model throughout the DOD.

During his 11 years as a member of the FLC, Dr. Dieter has served as Mid-Atlantic Region Deputy Regional Coordinator for five years. As Mid-Atlantic Regional Coordinator for three years, he significantly strengthened interactions between federal labs, economic development centers, private industry and educational institutions in the region. In May 2006 he was elected as a Member-at-Large on the FLC Executive Board. Dr. Dieter is currently serving his fourth year as an Executive Board member. In 2003, he was awarded the Meritorious Civilian Service Award in recognition of his leadership in technology transfer, and in 2004 he received the FLC's Harold Metcalf Award. In November 2006 he was presented with the DOD's George F. Linsteadt Technology Transfer Achievement Award, based on his leadership, innovation, and impact on the DOD Technology Transfer Program, and his personal involvement and impact on industry.
