

Joe Sciabica

Air Force Research Laboratory

Joe Sciabica is Executive Director of the Air Force Research Laboratory (AFRL), Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, OH. He is the principal assistant to the commander and the senior civilian executive responsible for managing the Air Force's $2 billion science and technology program; additional customer funded research and development of $1.7 billion; and a workforce of approximately 9,500 people in the laboratory's component technology directorates and the Air Force Office of Scientific Research. Mr. Sciabica began his career with the Air Force in 1982 at the Air Force Rocket Propulsion Laboratory, Edwards AFB, CA. He has served in a variety of engineering and senior technical management positions within the Air Force laboratory system, leading the development and transition of advanced rocket, space and sensor technologies to air, space and missile systems. From May 2005 to January 2008, Mr. Sciabica served as Director of the AFRL Sensors Directorate. A graduate of the Defense Systems Management College and National War College, Mr. Sciabica was appointed to the Senior Executive Service in 2003.